A staunch defense of Myers Y.
Cooper as a man and as a governor was made by Ralph D. Cole of Findlay star Republican campaign speaker in the principal address before a Republican rally last night in The Star Auditorium. Approximately 500 persons attended.

Cole lauded Cooper as a man of honesty and integrity and praised him for his business ability.

The speaker assailed George White, Democratic candidate for governor, for his record while a member of Congress. Col. Cole declared White voted to reduce the pay of American soldiers from $24 to $25 per month.

Mouser Defends Tariff

Congressman Grant E. Mouser Jr. of Marion defended the tariff in another address on the program.
He declared the tariff protected American business from encroachment by foreign nations.

Both Mouser and Cole assailed American capital for investing heavily in foreign countries and thereby harming home labor.

"If the billions of dollars invested in foreign countries by American capitalists were spent at home, we HALLIE met Lester again on the summit. She did not see his approaching hail as in former days, and remained motionless as he came near her.

"Hallie, you're on your high heels about something or other me off it, sweetheart—I've got to tell you."

"It's no use, Lester!"

She had not meant to say it, but she knew that the words had forced themselves out. She might as well tell him the truth.

"It's no use blaming a night, but when I told you I loved you I was wrong. I meant love that I felt for you. The words came rushing now—she did not stop them. "It isn't love you feel for me. You made me madly, desperately happy when you held me and kissed me but now I know that happiness isn't love."

"You liked it, all right!"

things with each up there.

"I think you're insane," said that innocent Halsey, but I think it.

A group of people passed it shifter. They looked curiously, as they stung along and Halsey seized upon their protecting presence. She stood up.

"I'll go back home, I think. There's absolutely no sense in the kind of discussion. You'll have to explain away your telegram as best you can. And Lester's statement."

"What?"

"I have made inquiries and my real name is Constance Rose Collins. That is the name under which your brother knows me. You'll have to remember that carefully. It is easier if you just forget that Nurse Ellsworth ever existed."

Lester smiled at her.

"Charming little thing, aren't you? Just forget that Nurse Ellsworth ever existed." Quite simply.

get it? Why, a month ago you night in question. No chaperon, no servants, no nothing. Fact that I had a little nap, apparently, only marks were worse."

"All that," cried Hallie, "is false! I remember now that Saxley said about it to me. He said that you had told him that Nurse Ellesyou who dragged in the conven-

Love's Reawakening The Story of a Wife's

Love's Awakening Triumph Over Jealousy

BY ADOLPH GARRISON

Ducky Adds His Mite to Mary's Thanks for Mother's efforts.

"DUCKY, I'M PROBABLY a thing of no account," said Ducky, the young son of Jack Leese, who had just told him of the trouble he was in the "expiring" connection between his mother and Mary, and the "other" woman around his home, as he called it. "I have even said that I'm a thing of no account looking after my mother's supper and taking care of her, and leaving Ducky still having to be my employer as if the two were on equal terms whose triumph was of long standing. But I had no immediate means of knowing whether Ducky should be the assistant of Philip Veritain, which I hope of the world, but I thought I was for the execution of the 'Baker' supper, and the confusion incident to the breaking up of the party."

and's voice which told me that he believed and appreciated the effort I had made to give his orphaned niece the school girl party for which she had longed so many months. But as the girls' socials are so rare, I managed to check the emotion back at I steady her as well as myself by a practical assumption.

"There are many good times coming, I remember, but we won't have any strength for them if we don't get some sleep. I'm going to show you all to bed."

"Amn, and so be it," Lillian said. "Mation, I believe you're scheduled for a noon breakfast at Miss Hix's, isn't a last minute shopping tour at the afternoon, and dinner at a Chinese restaurant. So you have a full program and I'm going to tell you between the sheets, probably Harry being Noel along with y in thirty seconds. That's time enough to say good-night."

"I'll understand good-humoredly," said the mother, and then as the girls went out the door, Mary appeared into the bedroom, a Ducky and I were left facing each other. I felt as if my pulses were bounding. Was his mood the surprising one, which I had heard in his speech to Mary, or was it tempered by the subconscious resentment against Philip Veritain which I knew he cherished?

kept the old maid from the last guest had been spent.

Lillian Controls Her Jealousy

That last guest was Ronald who returned all attempts to speed him while he was saving good-byes to Marion, until the young girl herself commanded him, presently to go home and get some sleep. Then he reluctantly departed in the wake of his mother who had beamed approval upon her son and her friend's lovely young daughter throughout the entire evening.

Harry Emerson, one who stood affectionately around his stepdaughter, watched her youthful admirer's departure with a quizzical though wholly approving smile. But Lillian, though she was also smiling, had the deep-etched lines around her lips and nostrils which to me are sure signs of her emotional disquiet. That her maternal jealousy of Marion, unalloyed, obscuring because of her daughter's long-enforced absence from her during the years of childhood, was warring with her real approval of Ronald, this was the message I read from those etched lines.

I touched her arm in warning for Marion's eyes, searching her mother's face as if in present expectation of what she might find there were shadowing. With a start, Lillian turned to her young daughter and smiled widely at the picture which I knew was so welcome to her of the child she adored in the embrace of her husband.

"Well, dearest," she quipped, "did the party come up to expectations?"

(3) Mums? Marion expostulated in patently exasperation. "You're being a little chilly. It Did your child have Sore Throat this month?

A half-sick, run-down child is ill-equipped to face winter's dangers. With strength at a low ebb, even an ordinary sore throat may be serious.

Now is the time to build up health and vigor. Father John's Medicine is a simple food medicine that contains no drugs, no alcohol. Children thrive on it amazingly. Where there is vitamin deficiency in the diet, results are literally surprising. Pale cheeks glow with health and color. Appetite becomes keen and shapty Pounds are added. Colds are few and far between.

Because of its combination of cod liver oil with other valuable ingredients Father John's Medicine brings all the benefits of cod liver oil in the form it will do the most good. Each tiny globule of oil is so finely broken up that it is easily and quickly assimilated by even the most delicate stomach. And it actually tastes good.

Just ask your druggist for Father John's Medicine. It is used regularly by over 184 hospitals and institutions. Give it regularly. You may be amazed and delighted at the results. Sometimes it is the one missing element that makes a vital difference in a child's health and vigor.—Adv.

me, hugging me until I was breath-with Mary and Noel, in the center of our apartment from which the guests had departed after coming upstairs for their wraps.

"There isn't a word I could use to describe it," Mary said in her lilting voice. "It's what I've dreamed of was so much more wonderful than I dreamed. And it's all this darling woman's doings," she hugged me again. "You sweetheart! Auntie Madge. I never was so happy in my whole life before. I wonder if I'll ever be as happy again!"

Mary Tempers Her Statement

Over Noel's face drifted a shadow so evanescent that I almost doubted having seen it. But I knew that there had come poignantly to him the thought which had forced its way into my own mind. Did Mary mean that this party night had transcended in happiness the day of her betrothal or would rival her anticipated wedding day?

As if she had guessed my thought, she laughed in embarrassed fashion.

"I guess I don't quite mean that," she said. "It's the second happiest day of my life," she flashed a coquettish glance at Noel. "But it's the gayest, loveliest time I ever had, or ever expect to have, and it's all owing to Auntie Madge."

"Days! Please!" I expostulated.

"Your Uncle Dicky had as much to do with it——"

"Spare my blushes," Dicky interrupted, "and take your bow gracefully. Of course, we all know that me and old Harry are really along this party with the aid and advice of the kind gentleman who provided the posies for the occasion. But we're too modest to take the credit, and we'll let you have the whole thing. Hug her, again, Mary, she deserves it."

Dicky and Midge Alone

I came very near to the tears which I saw far back in Mary's eyes, for there was that in my husband

Mr. Cole stated that while American business and industry may be in a depressed state, it is still higher than the highest level of prosperity in European countries, where he said economic conditions have always been low.

Mr. Findlay speaker urged his listeners to vote for the entire state ticket whose candidates he briefly outlined.

Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, prominent "lat" Republican worker, spoke briefly. State Senator Robert L. Rohe of Tiffin, also a candidate for one of the two state senatorial positions to be filled this November, also talked.

To entertain Senator Chairman Fred W. Warner announced the meeting to be held in the Marion Steam Shovel auditorium Friday noon at which U. S. Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch will be the speaker. The meeting will be followed with a luncheon sponsored by Republican women in the Marion hotel, at which the senator will be the guest of honor. County candidates sat on the platform with the group of speakers last night and they were introduced to the audience.

The 45-piece Future Farmers of America band, which next month will play at the national convention in Kansas City, played several selections before and after the program, while the Women's Republican Glee club of the city sang.

Witches To Walk At Harding High Carnival

Journalism Students Plan Annual Gala Event for Pupils, Graduates and Future Classes; Variety of Entertainment Planned for Friday Night.

A party for Marion. That's the idea of the journalism classes of Harding High school in giving a Herald Homecoming Carnival Friday night at the school. The alumni of the high school, of the old Marion High school, boys and girls who will enter high school in the next two or three years—parents and friends have all been invited.

This is the only event in the year in which all three grades sophomores, juniors and seniors join for a good time. The school is shown open for the students to decorate as they wish and to arrange their entertainment.

Students in Charge Most of the rooms will have some kind of show going on all the time, open to anyone at a small admittance fee. There will be no admittance charge to the high school, only to the various attractions.

There is no general committee in charge. The journalism students have taken it upon themselves to make the carnival a big hit.

Like to play miniature golf? The vocational boys of the school are constructing a course for the gymnasium floor, that, according to Russell Dunlap and L. H. Ricker, faculty members in charge, would knock Bobby Jones from his present position of supremacy if he played the carnival course. They are going to call it "Whoopee" golf and there will be an award presented for the lowest score.

The doors will open at 7:30 p. m. Miss Margaret Elyon and Miss Verna Ath are in charge of the "Witches House," a mysterious fortune telling done on the first floor.

Minstrel on Program "Crows Blackbirds," a minstrel show will be in charge of Miss Mildred Crow, and will be presented in west assembly hall.

Vaughan Errett and Levan Adams will act as stage managers. The boys' glee club will sing. In connection with the minstrel show, L. A. Webb's home room will sponsor a mock wedding.

Sweets and ice cream will be in charge of Miss Isabel Frier, Miss Mary Helphrey, A. F. Lantz and J. H. Smith, with Emily Halby, Edith Hildebrandt, Maurine Italy Junior Clay, Jean Witt, Helen Perry, Cleona Clark, Sarah Irvine, Thelma Johnston and David Merkel assisting in "Hansel and Gretel's Candy Shop" on the first floor.

Miss Edith Brown's home room will make the carnival more colorful with the big colored balloons lettered "Harding," which they will sell in room 14. Miss Trilla Klopfenstein's home room will have a pop corn stand on first floor and Miss Pansy Rauhauser and Miss Margaret Wolfley's home rooms will tempt the customer with cider and doughnuts.

The Girl Reserves of the high school, with Miss Jean Frier in charge will stage the "Big Parade of 1930" in room 22 and the "Harding Hi Music Box" in east hall.

A fish pond, without which carnival is incomplete, will be sponsored by Miss Helen Jacobs' home room on second floor.

of the fire department.

Each my department operating expenses is $2,000 less than its 1929 total of $3,300 were McFarland said. The reason condition is that the city did not have sufficient back up the 1929 appropriations.

For an even larger deficit the department at the end of the year, Chief McFarland declared. Firemen will be paid Nov. 15, but at that time the salaries will be exhausted.
McFarland told of virtually

Chief McFarland also declared

PAYROLL ROBBERY IS RECALLED BY PAROLE

Bernard Banks, Chauffeur for C. D. & M. Bandit Crew, Out on Dec 1.

The C. D. & M. robbery of five years ago, when bandits assaulted two messengers, threw acid in their faces and escaped with a payroll containing $2,000 in cash besides thousands of dollars in checks, was recalled today when announcement was made from Mansfield that Bernard Banks, of Columbus, chauffeur for the bandit crew, will be paroled Dec. 1.

Banks was given an indeterminate sentence in the reformatory following his plea of guilty to robbery. Harry Duncan, sentenced to 10 years in the state penitentiary for grand larceny, died in the prison fire last April, while James Madden, given a 25-year sentence for grand larceny, was paroled some time ago when he contracted tuberculosis.

William Shy, given a 10-year sentence for robbery, is still serving his term. Emma Voelker and Jack DeHayes, implicated in the robbery, were freed when they turned state's evidence. Later the couple were married.

The bandit crew assaulted Newell Minard and Paul Simpson, messengers for the electric company, on a stairway leading to the company's offices which at that time were located in the present city building. They threw acid into the messengers' eyes which for a time threatened the two with blindness but from which they eventually recovered.

Within several weeks the bandits were traced and were returned here to stand trial.

Gilbert Hammond, sent up from Marion county last Sept. 18 on a charge of automobile stealing, is another who will be paroled Dec. 1.
William Edwards and Alvin Larnez of Hardin county are others included in the list of 128 Mansfield inmates who were granted parole by the state board of clemency.

LAUNDRY & DRY CLEANING

Why are Camels welcomed with cheers in any company—a twosome or a crowd? Because they're mild—not flat or tasteless but naturally mild. They have the marvelous aroma that only choice tobaccos, mellowed by golden sunshine, then expertly cured and superbly blended, can give a cigarette. There's nothing artificial about this delightful fragrance. No doctoring, no over-processing can produce it. Camel's refreshing mildness is there from the start.

Swing with the crowd to Camels. Learn the happy difference between true mildness and insipid flatness. Smoke without fear of throat-discomfort or after-taste—just for pleasure!

Sound Sleepers

WHEN people change positions often while sleeping it isn't necessarily a sign of restlessness. In fact, a typical healthy sleeper should change his position from 20 to 45 times every night, according to a health bulletin received by Dr. N. Siffrid, city-county health commissioner, from the Chicago health department.

The ordinary sleeper doesn't lie still for as long as an hour at any one time and on some occasions will shift his position every five or 10 minutes, the bulletin says.

In order to get a healthy person to spend a night in any one position, one would need to strap him in a frame or else put him in a cast, the article on "Sleep and Its Disturbances" relates.

Mortgages Stay Here

MORTGAGES recorded in Marion county during 1929 were assumed largely by Marion and other Ohio banks and building and loan associations, according to a survey made by Mrs. Cora McKee, recorder for the governor's taxation committee.

A total of 71 per cent of the mortgages recorded here are held by banks and loan associations in the state, her checkup shows.

Ohio individuals hold 21 percent and the other eight per cent are divided among insurance companies, federal and joint stock land banks, and other organizations. Mrs. McKee made the survey for Mrs. Charles L. Hailer, secretary of the taxation committee.

Starts New Book

A NEW criminal docket containing enough pages for 600 cases was opened this week in the office of Everett B. Grigby, clerk of common pleas court, an illegal possession case being the first entry.

The book is 12 1/2 by 8 inches and contains 200 more pages than the one which was started in December, 1925. This 400 cases are divided into a period of nearly five years, making an average of 80 cases annually.

Husbands, Please Note

WHEN city police decide to clean houses, they are at a distinct advantage over any other city department. All that is required of them is to "boast" the job while prisoners who have been incarcerated on some petty offense, or who have come to police station for a "flop" do the work.

Train riding is an offense peculiar to a fairly large group of colored men. When arrested these men are impressed with the seriousness of their offense and are then offered liberty if they will work.

City police station now presents a spotless appearance as the result of a recent wall scrubbing contest in which three or four of the colored prisoners engaged. The colored fellows often draw the regular assignment of polishing cupboards and sweeping the floors.

GETS FINE, SENTENCE FOR HITTING FARMER

Charles Shepherd Assessed $50 and Sent to Jail for Part in Fray.

Charles Shepherd, 25, of West Fairground street was fined $50 and committed to 10 days in the county jail when he pleaded guilty in municipal court this morning to a charge of assault and battery on J. P. Robinson, farmer of near Morral.

Shepherd confessed striking Robinson when he, in company with two women, went to the Robinson farm Sunday night. Robinson claims he ordered the trio off the farm when they became hilarious.

Meantime, Florence McCarty and Leota DeVees, of Garden City pike, are being held in county jail pending a hearing Wednesday on charges of assault and battery in connection with the same affair. Robinson said the trio first attacked him when he ordered them off the place, and that Shepherd later struck him across the head with an automobile crank.

The Stars Say--

For Thursday, Oct. 23

A VERY propitious planetary configuration on this day should assist to easy movement towards high goals of ambition and enterprise. New plans and contracts, financial or speculative schemes and also straight investments should thrive, especially if the assistance of those in places of position and power be sought for furthering these projects. However, a note of warning may be sounded against intrigue or underhanded methods in making these agreements.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a fruitful year, with success in important ventures, speculation, investments and new projects, with increase of finances and decisive approach to the goal of ambitions. Persons of position and authority may assist. Nevertheless, there must be a word of warning against the possibility of duplicity, intrigue or subtle misrepresentation. A child born on this day may be capable in many directions, ambitious and well liked and should attain to an advanced position in life through its own efforts, despite the menace of secret enemies and conspiracies.

THESE CANDIDATES ASK YOUR VOTE ON NOV. 4

BERT J. SHELTON

Editor's Note—This is one of a series of stories being published by The Star to acquaint Marion county voters with local and district candidates who will be voted on at the polls Nov. 4.

R. G. SMALLWOOD

CANDIDATES for the election on Nov. 4 as Marion county treasurer have both had political experience.

Bert J. Shelton, incumbent and Republican nominee, is completing his third term as treasurer, while R. G. Smallwood, Democrat, is Marion city councilman-at-large.

The former seeks his fourth term in the office. His first two terms ran from January, 1921, to January, 1925. For four years he was out of office and in 1925 was elected for the third term which began on Jan. 1, 1925 and which will be completed on Jan. 1, 1931.

Smallwood is a grocer and lives at 355 Bellefontaine avenue. He is 46 years of age and has lived in the county for 25 years.

Shelton, prior to becoming treasurer in 1921, was employed in the accounting department of the Erie Railroad Co. He formerly taught school in Union county. Shelton has been in the county 18 years and resides at 378 South Vine street.

First Program of 1-Act Plays Given by Mimes

Drama and Two Comedies Mark Beginning of Season for Short Plays of Little Theater Group Here; Lewis Francis and Charles Grace Direct Productions.

The first of the one-act programs of this season of Marion Mimes activities was well received by the membership last night when three of the shorter plays were presented at Central Junior High school.

The program was varied, opening with a drama and closing with two comedies. Lewis Francis and Charles Grace directed the first play, set in the Antarctic regions, the story of an explorer who has been lost from the world for years and whose son has carried on his work. They meet, only to part in a few short minutes, the son, unaware that he has met his father, but the father knowing that his son is living and is carrying on his work. Charles Grace did a good bit as the father. A. I. Hinklin, Charles Ellicker and Henry Miller completed the cast.

Gossip of the meanest sort was the basis for the second play, directed by Mrs. Wilson B. Tway. Three women are tearing a woman's reputation apart as they play a hand of bridge while waiting her arrival. Her experience as an actress in former years stands her in good stead in finally bringing the women to a realization of just what their real feelings are about her. Miss Dorothy Briggs capably handled the part of the woman whose reputation was at stake. The three women around the card table, Mrs. Frank M. Knapp, Mrs. George Kraatz and Mrs. Douglas Felt, were well cast.

Mrs. R. G. Williamson gave one of the best character interpretations of Mimes history as the Swedish maid who not only upset a loving, peaceful domestic household, but set it right again. Miss Gladys Brobst and Marion Cole were cast as the young people whose table service was in jeopardy with the Swedish maid serving, but who were living happy ever after when the play closed. Charles Grace was the director.

The next play, "A Prince There Was," will be a public production to be presented Nov. 15.

YESTERDAY in the far-away Nauvoo Island of the South Pacific, scientists with huge cameras and other scientific instruments, playing for a clear sky, were ready to study the sun's eclipse.

It was to last only 93 seconds then the sun would come out again and resume its shining.

Some find it hard to believe that prosperity, which has lasted more than 83 seconds, will also pass and prosperity come out again and resume its shining.

Many feel about prosperity's passing as they feel about the sun's eclipse. They thought a prosperity was coming and they were not prepared for it.

CLYDE POWERS DIES IN N. Y. HOSPITAL

Well-Known Theatrical Man, Born Here, Claimed in Hospital.

after Fred Stone was thought to have been fatally injured in an airplane crash. Powers was being a semi-retired life at the time of his death.

Powers' career as a magician and entertainer began with his appearance before the Masons, Elks and other lodges in Marion. When the Chicago World's Fair opened in 1933 he was a "hobby" man, performing his magic tricks for Mrs.
Zatone's "Street of Cairo" at the Midway. The next four years were spent with Col. R. J. Douglas in Indian medicine show in the small towns of Ohio.

His next position came with the Buckeye Animal show in 1935. As "The Man with the Goos" he became a well known figure throughout the country, parading the streets of the big cities escorting well trained geese at the end of a string as an advertising stunt.

He also trained an animal act, a "mixed group" consisting of two hens, two bears, one heena and two dogs. Later he took up elephant training.

Mrs. Kruger has in her possession an elephant hook with an ivory tusk that presented Powers by Thompson and Dundy, builders of the New York Hippodrome, for his care of the elephants with the show. The Hippodrome theater was the most famous in the United States and in 1935 he went there and with the exception of a brief period after the end of the Shubert regime, he remained at the Hippodrome until Charles Dillingham relinquished the management in 1937.

When he first went to the Hippodrome he was a clown and worked with a pig, a goose, chickens and other feathered and scallop assistants, and in time became stage manager with authority over 400 chorus girls, 110 stage carpenters, 199 property men and stage clearers, 50 electricians and spotlight operators and an engineering crew of 20 working the treadmill.

Owned Stores Powers was at one time owner of the largest magic store in the country, with branches in Chicago, Philadelphia, Cleveland and New Haven, Conn.

As stage manager at the Hippodrome he was under director R. H.
Burnside and when Fred Stone was taking out his show, "Supper Stones," Burnside selected Powers to accompany the show as manager.

Powers was born July 15, 1875, in Cardington, to Rev. Martin A.
Powers and Mary Ellen Bradford.
His marriage to Emily E.
Burge, whose home is in the east, was solemnized March 22, 1904.
They had no children. The Powers home is in Killbuck, Conn.

Besides his sister, Mrs. Kruger, and his widow, he leaves a brother, J. W. Powers of Mansfield.
Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

The Passing of General Weyler.

In my time I have seen much of the honors of the world, and I know they are worth nothing. I have seen the great General Weyler, who has died, in addition to his wife and children who he directed that he be buried without state honors and with the most moderate state at possible. At 80, when he died Monday, his instructions were followed.

Arrangements had been made for a state funeral and King Alfonso had ordered that the highest military honor be paid to the memory of the ranking captain general of the Spanish army, but the family vetoed the plan and the body of the veteran warrior, who died in a simple wooden casket, was taken through a downpour of rain to San Lorenzo cemetery, Tuesday, and committed to the grave. The funeral service had been performed in the modest Weyler home in Madrid two hours earlier than the time publicly scheduled, to escape possible crowds and but one carriage, which contained relatives, followed the hearse to the place of burial.

General Weyler was a man of iron. Three times during the past year he outlived attacks of disease from which he was not expected to recover, and died at ninety-two as a result of his illness having been augmented by injuries received a month ago in a fall from his horse.

And his will was of iron, as well as his physique. It was the mercilessness of his iron will, manifested in his campaign to put down revolution in Cuba something like a third of a century ago, which gave him the name of "Butcher Weyler." He was of the old school of warriors who believed in accomplishing their end, no matter what the cost in blood and misery. It was his cruelness which led the United States to wage war on Spain—the Maine disaster simply hastened American action—and drove Spanish rule not only from the Western hemisphere, but from the Philippines as well.

No matter what may have been the feeling of General Weyler in the succeeding years regarding his course in Cuba, he lived to see the blessings which accrued to both the Cubans and the Philippines as the result of it. He lived to see both liberated from many deadly diseases as well as Spanish cruelty, to see the latter given a stable form of government and the former given their liberty and their island made an earthly paradise. That neither has manifested the highest degree of appreciation of the blessings which have come to them as the result of our intervention in Cuba in the interests of humanity may have caused this grim old warrior to appreciate less highly the course this country pursued, but it can in no way lessen world esteem, present or future, for the great work General Leonard Wood performed as governor general first in Cuba and then in the Philippines in cleaning up the islands and supplanting conditions fruitful of disease with conditions conducive to health.

The very suspicious phase of the story from Riga, Latvia, that Russia has placed a ban on emigration to the United States, figuring that it will be more profitable to keep would-be emigrants at home and force their relatives in America to send remittances averaging $40 a month to keep them from starvation, is that Russia admits it is just bordering on the impossible to feel that the soviet government would admit the truth.

 rise from our laboratories. Maybe so, but the pressing trouble seems to be to keep people trick.

A Chicago woman, who claims that she divorced her husband when she was alike physically and mentally ill, has sued his second wife for $75,000 for the alleged alienation of his affections, sued him for $50,000 for depriving her of his society for two years and sued as well to set aside the divorce decreed her on the ground that he took advantage of her condition to influence her to institute the divorce proceeding. She doesn't appear to have overlooked any chances to recover either her one-time husband or his equivalent in coin.

President Hoover recently said that "both pacifism and militarism court danger from the other by promoting arrogance." That's what we would denominate hitting two birds with Down in Mexico, a tribe, which shows not the slightest trace of any Mayan civilization or any blood heretofore found in Mexico and speaks a language not previously known, has been discovered by a wandering band of merchants, to the members of which the tribesmen were finally able to make known that they and their ancestors had had no communication with the outside world for four centuries. And yet there are snobs who actually take pride in what they hold as their exclusiveness.

The Junkers are said secretly to be constructing in their plant at Dessau, Germany, a altitude of 35,000 feet both the pilot and passenger compartments of which will be airtight and supplied with oxygen to enable the passengers and crew to withstand the thin air. Just why the builders assume that anybody should want to travel at that height and speed and suffer oxygen treatment to do it, is a mystery which has not been explained.

The Moslems and Hindus in attendance at

The people of Michigan, Michigan are set on downing business depression by indulging in a buying spree, the goal for the week's expenditures having been placed at $100,000. The first day's business showed sales increases to 100 per cent, and the belief obtains there that Michigan has found the proper method for what ailing business. Possibly so. The outside world, however, will be bound to wonder how the spree isolated as it is, is going to prove of any marked aid to the fellow who has nothing to sell.

LABOR'S UNEMPLOYMENT PROGRAM.
 Leaders of trade unions have devoted months to the study of the existing unemployment problem. The results of the study are seen in the resolutions adopted the other day by the convention of the American Federation of Labor.

In the first place, proposals for compulsory insurance against unemployment were rejected, though a scientific inquiry into all possible means of minimizing that great evil was authorized.

In the second place, the convention, while advocating the use of emergency measures for the prevention of distress by public governing agencies, corporations and employers generally, laid particular stress on long-range remedies for unemployment. Those remedies include reduction in the hours of work, improved management of production and distribution, a nationwide system of labor exchanges, full and reliable data on involuntary idleness, building and betterment reserve funds to be expended during periods of business recession, systematic efforts to stabilize industry and do away with the business cycle so far as that is possible.

It is significant that the federation and its experienced officers and advisers refrain from recommending, as some pseudo-scientific persons have recommended, a horizontal increase in wages. The federation offers no dubious or quick remedies. It realizes that the unemployment problem is extremely intricate and difficult. Time, hard thinking and effective teamwork will be required for its solution.

Labor has set a useful example in approaching the great and pressing problem in a spirit of moderation and sober inquiry. Other elements in the world of production should be equally thoughtful and open minded in their study of unemployment.—Chicago News.

PREPARING FOR HARD TIMES.

In the last few months we have heard a lot about the desirability of preparing for bad times while good times are still with us. The President of the United States, with his plan for public works, was one of the first to enunciate this doctrine. The American Federation of Labor is the latest, and no doubt there will be others before the clock begins to turn. Unquestionably it is a sound idea, but it would run into a formidable snag if anybody tried to put it into actual practice. The snag is that in good times to talk about the possibility of bad times is a crime somewhat similar to imagining the king's death. A year ago the man who so much as wondered about bad times would have been denounced as a sort of public enemy. All sorts of arguments were advanced to prove that the boom would last forever, securities had acquired a "certainty value" quite apart from their intrinsic worth, like the autographs of Button Gwinnett, the population was increasing, living standards were going up, the country had found an unlimited capacity to consume what ever was produced in it. What chance, at that feverish time, for the man who asked considerable money for daisies, steamboat channels, and postoffices, frankly on the ground that then construction would provide jobs during the dark hours ahead? He would have been lucky to get out of the capitol alive.—New York World.

WORTH-WHILE ACCIDENT PREVENTION.

It is to be assumed that the record has been carefully and accurately kept which, as published, shows that in twelve years no fatality has been caused by accident to a passenger transported on a passenger train by the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad. During these twelve years the company has carried a total of more than 30,000,000 passengers. This is one of those occasional results that gives new heart to those engaged in promoting accident prevention, a work of many discouragements that often seems of small avail against universal human carelessness and mounting records of deaths and injuries.

A showing of this does not, just happen, any more than accidents themselves, just happen. It must represent a painstaking, effective effort for the safety of the public on the part of the K-T management. If one company, averaging more than 4,000,000 passengers a year, has transported that number for twelve years without the loss of a single life, why may not other companies duplicate the record with like precautions.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Early Care and Scarlet Fever.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Of all the contagious diseases of childhood, scarlet fever has always been one that a mother most feared. In these days of treatment by vaccine, the old-time dread of the disease has diminished considerably.

Scarlet fever is highly contagious. Its con-tagiousness does not depend upon the severity of the attack. The person with a very mild case may give to another a most malignant type.

Practically all the infectious or contagious diseases begin in the same way. The first evidence is vomiting, or in the case of a child it may be a convulsion. Almost immediately the temperature goes up. Then we find the patient complaining of a sore throat. There is likely, too, to be intense fever.

After a few hours a rash appears on the chest and neck. In the course of two or three days the rash spreads over the entire body, beginning above and gradually extending downward. The rash is not at all like measles, where the eruption first appears on the cheeks.

After about six days there is a peeling of the skin. There is a very peculiar appearance of the tongue which is called "strawberry" tongue.
 The complications of scarlet fever are many and some are quite serious. It is no wonder that a mother is frightened at the thought of her child going through the dangers of the disease.

It is not at all uncommon to have broncho-pneumonia develop. The heart may give way or the kidneys may be involved. The joints sometimes become red and tender as in rheumatism. There are other serious complications.

Scarlet fever is contagious from the very first symptoms until all the peeling and discharge from the ears disappear. This time covers a period of at least forty days.

The usual term of incubation is a week or ten days. In rare cases it may come on as quickly as three or four days after exposure.

At the slightest suspicion of scarlet fever, a doctor should be called. Early attention is important.

It used to be considered a children's ailment but an adult exposed to it may have the disease.
 Every precaution should be taken to keep a scarlet fever patient isolated so as not to expose others.

First Steps of Law and Justice.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

It is a significant fact that the first law established in Ohio soil provided for the organization of a militia force. It even preceded the act of creating courts to administer law, which was the second act promulgated.

The first law the militia act was dated July 25, 1788, at Marietta, of course. The second act established the court of common pleas. It was the date of August 23, 1788, and a general court was held under it on the first Tuesday in September. Nothing seems to have been done at that first court session beyond the organization of the court.

At the second session, which was held on the second Tuesday in September first things in court operation and law administration happened in rapid succession. Generals Rufus Putnam and B. Tucker were the justices and Isaac Pearce, Thomas Lord and R. J. Meigs were the assistants. Meigs was made clerk of the court, the first court clerk on Ohio soil.

Paul Fealing was at this time admitted to practice law in the territorial courts, being the first lawyer in the Northwest territory. Before the only lawyer of that time he had no opportunity for appointment as United States attorney for the territory.

The first grand jury was at this time impanned and the names of the men who were at that historic jury were William Shaw, Nathaniel Cushing, Nathan Goodale, who was the father of Dr. Goodale who presided at Goodale park to the city of Columbus. George Knowles, Augustus Tupper, Jonathan Shaw, Oliver Rice, Ezra Linn, John Matthews, John Ingerson, Jonathan Devoil, Samuel Shaw, John Jethro Putnam and Robert True. The last was a doctor and was the first person to establish himself in the practice of medicine in the territory northwest of the Ohio river.

CRY FOR IT

FIVE million modern mothers tell you that children DO cry. Fletcher's Castoria. For mothers who give a few drops of this pure vegetable preparation when a child has any of the symptoms that tell of sluggish bowels, colic, or other upsets. When tongues are coated and breath is bad. When a child is restless, irritable. Always soothing and comforting to an infant yet it is effective for children in the teens. You never have to coax child to take Castoria; they love its taste. Be ready for the next case of stomach, constipation, or other need of Castoria!

When buying look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on wrapper.
